I attended a public consultation of the Clare Draft Development Plan Having looked at the Cratloe Area map I was applauded at the suggestion of putting a railway track through Rosmanager on the Bunratty side of the river. This is a flood plain which was last flooded in 2018 There is no proposed rail link to Sixmilebridge despite the increasing population and the number of people employed in Shannon. The distance from Cratloe to Ballycar is far greater than from Sixmilebridge to Bunratty and Shannon which would be less cost to the taxpayer The site of the proposed railway station in Cratloe is on a very dangerous stretch of road with space available for car parking. Could it be located near the Portrine flyover I would like to suggest a rail link from Sixmilebridge railway station or from the rail line between Sixmilebridge and Ballycar to Bunratty and Shannon Install a turning table in Shannon and train returns on the same track to the existing railway track

Could I suggest a walking or cycle track along with a rail track
